Horstedt – Husum Bay / Husumer Bucht

North of Husum, there lies the village of Horstedt directly on the boundary between the marsh and the Geest ridge. The vibrant beautiful village has 1170 hectares in which agriculture plays an important role.

Horstedt – Small but refined

Cows graze in the middle of the village upon lush green meadows and fresh milk directly from the producer as well as rolls from the local baker allow one to start off each day right.

Horstedt may be small, but this special little piece of North Friesland lends a certain grandeur to the village. Here, you can find rest and relaxation when biking, hiking or horseback riding which you will consider to be among the best experiences you have ever had. Low German and Friesian. Salt meadow lamb and a Pharisäer.

Horstedt in changing times

During the course of time, the village of Horstedt transformed itself from a pure farming village with the handicraft shops (cartwrights and blacksmiths, etc.) into a farming village with a residential function. In the meantime, businesses with leisure time value have become important, such as horse-riding stalls or also both restaurants where many a celebration has been held.

Where previously the merchant and the baker formed the centre point of the village and become the meeting place for the village's residents, there must be a replacement these days. In Horstedt, with the building of the "Uns Huus" village community centre, a new village meeting place has been created.
